Faculty of Medicine

Near East University (NEU) Faculty of Medicine is the first Faculty of Medicine of North Cyprus. The mission of the faculty is to educate the medical students so that they would be able to use the most up to date scientific knowledge, make the correct and most accurate diagnosis, and implement the appropriate treatment, command the vast accumulation of modern medicine, keep themselves up to the date and reflect the innovations in medicine with regards to treatment and diagnosis. In modern medicine, the physician is not only responsible for the diagnosis and treatment, but he/she is also trained to value public health and preventive medicine extensively and take on an educator role in the public; so the students are educated based on these principles. NEU Faculty of Medicine with regard to its quality of education, educational staff, infrastructure, laboratories equipped with the latest technology, and modern educational hospital facilities is recognised by World Health Organization (WHO) and NMC.
